DO YOU HAVE:

Sun-Moon-Rising link?

Example: Your Sun in Cancer, their Moon in Cancer; your Rising in Scorpio, their Sun in Scorpio; or via element, so both of your Suns are earth signs or both of your Moons are water signs; or via planetary conjunctions, so you're a Sagittarius Sun, and they have Moon conjunct Jupiter, the natural ruler of Sagittarius, or you have Saturn in the 1st house and their Sun is in Capricorn which is ruled by Saturn; or via house, so your Sun is in the 3rd house and their Sun is in Gemini, which naturally links to the 3rd house

DO YOU HAVE: malefics on the composite chart angles?

Malefics are Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto and the angles are the 1st, 4th, 7th, and 10th house cusps, so any of those planets conjunct the composite chart angles can be difficult since the angles are active in nature and have a strong, obvious impact in life.

WRITE DOWN THE LOCATIONS OF THE COMPOSITE CHART SATURN, URANUS, NEPTUNE, AND PLUTO:

If you have any of the malefics conjunct a composite chart angle, that planet will be incredibly important in your relationship and the challenging energy associated with it can be a dominating force in the relationship that needs to be worked on, otherwise it can be a huge problem.

DO YOU HAVE: a North Node connection?

The North Node represents energy we have to grow into and learn, so it's unfamiliar and uncomfortable. When we find someone who has a planet on our North Node or vice versa, we may feel uncomfortable with them. But if it's the Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars, or Jupiter in the same sign as the North Node, then this can be a positive connection meant to help us grow if we're ready. If paired with other challenging connections, it may be a challenging connection purely meant for growth.

WRITE DOWN YOUR:

any planets in the sign of
their North Node

WRITE DOWN THEIR:

any planets in the sign of
your North Node

If you have a North Node connection, this can go either way. If there are positive connections to support it, this can be a good relationship that you enjoy as you grow. If there are challenging connections to aggravate it, this can be a difficult relationship, but one that still teaches you lessons about yourself.
