

February 9 2024 Aquarius New Moon:

On February 9th 2024, we have an Aquarius New Moon, and Aquarius New Moons are excellent times for change. We can focus on the changes we want to make and get started with, the changes we've already started and need to make strides with, and the changes we need to finish and see to the end. Change can be exciting, and we can channel enthusiasm for change productively, and take the initiative to make things happen.

Aquarius is also the sign of the unusual and unconventional, so we can focus on methods that are different from the norm, or at least different for us. We can be open to experimentation, to pushing ourselves outside of our comfort zones, and to playing around with futuristic ideas. None of this scares us now, and we're instead curious, open, and willing to see how it would work in our favor.

Aquarius is a highly independent sign, and wants us to embrace what makes us different. We can be more comfortable with our unique quirks and skills, and can be willing to use them to our advantage. This might help open up new options to us that wouldn't be there if we forced ourselves to stay in the box.

Aquarius rules the future, so we can focus on our future, what we hope for, and what we dream of. We can pursue opportunities to get us closer, and we can believe that it's possible someday. [Being willing to try things outside of our comfort zones help make that a reality.]

All of this is extra, extra, extra strong with this New Moon because by the time the New Moon rolls around, we'll have an Aquarius stellium. A stellium occurs when three or more planets are in one sign together. Pluto moves to Aquarius on January 20th, as well as the Sun, and Mercury joins them four days before the New Moon on February 5th, starting the Aquarius stellium. Mars will enter Aquarius four days after the New Moon on the 13th, and Venus enters Aquarius one week after the New Moon on the 16th, and the stellium ends up lasting until March 11th, so it's in effect for over one month.

This is huge energy for Aquarius, and we're into what will likely be the best time of the year for taking the initiative, making strides, and succeeding. What we set up now, can be something we end up focusing on for years to come thanks to Aquarius ruling the future and Pluto in Aquarius lasting for two decades. This is such important energy, and we need to be smart and focused. If changes need to be made, we can do it, and if we need to do things differently, we can. The opportunities for us are there, and we just have to take them and run with it.

This is even stronger thanks to the fact that all planets are moving forward during this time, even Ceres and Chiron, so we have tons of movement forward. We're focused on moving, gaining momentum, and getting somewhere, and we can.

The only issue with this New Moon is that it's square, which is a challenging aspect, transit Uranus in Taurus, and Uranus is the natural planetary ruler of Aquarius. This means there can be some restless, impatient energy to work on controlling with the New Moon, and we may feel so excited by everything that we just can't wait, but this ends up creating problems we could've avoided if we just waited a minute to double check. There can also be strong rebellious energy, and we have to make sure we're focused on the real issue at hand and not just lashing out.

One excellent possibility with this New Moon square Uranus is we have a stronger ability than usual to get out of a rut, to get unstuck with something that has been unyielding. We may see people, world situations, or experience in our personal lives something suddenly breaking out, and this can lead to more opportunities and a sense of freedom and space that has been lacking.

For everyone, look at any Aquarius parts of your natal chart to gauge the impact of the Aquarius New Moon. For those who are a little more advanced, also consider your progressed and return charts, and if in a relationship, your composite chart.

By sign, Aries may have great opportunities to make big changes in your life with the Aquarius New Moon, and these can be changes that extend into many areas of your life or impact many different projects or plans. You can get really invested in these changes, and can approach them in your own way. You can work independently, but can also benefit from your social circle and the new acquaintances you make. Your vision of the future can be strong and clear, and this inspires you.

Taurus can reach new heights with the Aquarius New Moon, and this Aquarius energy can help you succeed in big ways with what you've been doing right and are invested in. This can be one of the biggest periods in many years for you for achievement. Gather any information you need for your plans, be disciplined and focused with your work ethic, and connect with important people. Any goals you work on now can be ones that are a focus for years to come.

Gemini may get excited by new experiences with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can take advantage of opportunities you have to do something new. You can open up to a new course of study, to travel, to sharing wisdom, to writing or speaking, and your optimism can open up new doors for you. You can also have a good grasp of the big picture, which ends up helping you find even more opportunities. Every experience you have now can lead to more knowledge and growth.

Cancer can embrace your personal power with the Aquarius New Moon, and opportunities to take control can be presented to you. This may involve transforming something somehow, and this can be a serious undertaking, but you can have the passion and investigative ability to go for it. This empowers you even more, and you can feel stronger and stronger as time goes on. Others can see you as more formidable, and you can rise from any challenge.

Leo may benefit from your connections with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can focus on bringing new people into your life. Opportunities to work with a partner or to get help with something that has been challenging can come to you, and this can help you make more strides than you would alone. You can be more committed to people and projects, and your ability to charm, compromise, and negotiate can work in your favor more than usual.

Virgo can be extra productive with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can get attention for work you've done, projects you've finished, and methods you've perfected. Opportunities can come to you for new projects or new work, and this can be a much bigger opportunity than you've had thus far. Your ability to tend to the details can get notice, and you can benefit from being organized, on schedule, and having a healthy routine and regimen.

Libra may feel extra creative with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can pursue creative projects and ventures. Others can give you a lot more attention than usual, and you can feel comfortable in the spotlight. This can also be a great time for love and romance, and if single, you can be open to being pursued and enjoy the game of it all while still being open to new love. If attached, you can reignite sparks and make it feel new again.

Scorpio can set yourself up personally and internally for years to come with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can tend to home and family matters to give yourself more comfort and support at home and with those you think of as family. This may involve changes at home or with where you're living, or with your family connections. As you feel secure internally, you can build on that, and this can be a period where you work on starting a new venture from the ground up that is a focus for several years.

Sagittarius may benefit from your mind with the Aquarius New Moon, and opportunities to pursue an idea or plan can come your way. You can take the initiative with anything you want to get started, and you can be enthusiastic and optimistic. You can get attention for an idea, and can be more open with what's on your mind with others. It can be easier for you to express yourself fully, and you can keep yourself busy, be more engaging, or do something in your community.

Capricorn can focus on your resources with the Aquarius New Moon, and opportunities to have new resources or to make changes with existing ones can come your way. You can make yourself feel more abundant, and this can be a perceived feeling you have, but it can also be literal and you actually get more money or more of some physical tangible items. You can connect more with your body, senses, and the physical world, and can ground yourself and feel more secure.

Aquarius may have opportunities everywhere with the New Moon in your sign, and this period you're entering is one of the best periods for your sign that has come in years, and might be the best for the next few years as well, so don't miss out on this. This is the time to start a whole new journey, go down a new path, and maximize your enthusiasm and energy. Focus on what you want for yourself, something that excites you and you'd be willing to work on for the next few years, and get going.

Pisces can thrive behind the scenes with the Aquarius New Moon, and you can take this time now to work on your own, in the background, and without interference. This may seem like a quiet period on the surface for you, but it's one where you're preparing and setting yourself up. A Pisces stellium is coming in late February, so you'll hit the ground running when that happens if you set yourself up now. Finish anything you need to, clear out baggage, rest up, and get ready.

So that's it! Wishing you love, luck, and pixie dust with the Aquarius New Moon!

February 24 2024 Virgo Full Moon:

On February 24th 2024, we have a Virgo Full Moon, and Virgo is the sign of work, while Full Moons are times of endings, so put them together, and Virgo Full Moons are excellent times to get things done. This is a time to finish projects, tackle various tasks and chores, and clear out that list of things to do that has been growing.

The more we do, the more we can feel inspired to do even more, so we do have to make sure we don't push ourselves too far and over the limit. We still need breaks, and we need to leave room to recharge as needed.

We can feel good about getting things done, and this can help alleviate some stress. Sometimes things pile up and this can weigh on us, so the Virgo Full Moon offers a chance to work on that.

We have two overlapping stelliums with this Virgo Full Moon, one in Aquarius that's been in effect for a few weeks by the Full Moon, and one in Pisces that starts six days before the Full Moon, and all planets are still moving forward, so we've got highly concentrated energy cooking and we want to keep momentum going. The Virgo Full Moon helps to keep it up. Those stelliums last for just over two more weeks after the Virgo Full Moon, so we get a big dose of productive energy to maximize the super concentration.

Virgo is also the sign of stress, so Virgo Full Moons can increase our stress when we become emotional and upset. We need to focus on better stress management, and having healthy outlets for stress. We need to avoid asking perfection of ourselves, and dwelling on the bad. Try to look at the bright side. This can also be a good time to take care of ourselves and to tend to routine maintenance.

This Full Moon is trine, which is a beneficial aspect, transit Ceres in Capricorn. Ceres is a dwarf planet ruling nourishment, support, and resources, so we can use the resources we have to get more done, and can be smarter with what we have access to. We can find small ways to nurture ourselves and others, and to get and give support. Work we do now can reap rewards financially, or lead to more resources.

For everyone, look at any Virgo parts of your natal chart to gauge the impact of the Virgo Full Moon. For those who are a little more advanced, also consider your progressed and return charts, and if in a relationship, your composite chart.

By sign, Aries may get the most done with the Virgo Full Moon, and you can bring out your productive side to the max. You can take a practical approach to the work you do, and can benefit from being organized, structured, and on schedule. Work on finishing small projects or finalizing details for long-term plans, and maintain focus on change, your dreams, and the future.

Taurus can get inspired creatively with the Virgo Full Moon, and you can infuse this creativity into anything you're working to achieve right now. This can help you make more strides, and you can enjoy any attention you may get for it. You can connect with your heartfelt goals, and this helps you stay disciplined.

Gemini may take care of your emotional needs with the Virgo Full Moon, and as you feel more in tune with your emotions, you can feel more secure. You've been paying more attention to opening up your life and going down a new path, and turning more inward with the Full Moon can help you determine what you should work on from the ground up.

Cancer can finalize plans with the Virgo Full Moon, and your mind can be extra sharp. You can express yourself more freely, and say what you mean. This can help you get to the heart of something, work on transforming, or empowering yourself. You can sort through ideas, and use your mind to solve problems.

Leo may focus on areas that could use more stability with the Virgo Full Moon, and can tackle issues of insecurity. You may want to ground yourself, and this can help improve your confidence. This steady energy can also help your connections with others, and you can feel more loyal to the people you care about.

Virgo can give yourself attention with the Full Moon in your sign, and you may want to take some time to tend to your own wants and needs. You've likely had a lot to work on, and have given your focus to all sorts of projects, people, and plans, so taking some time for yourself can help you replenish your energy, get the rest you need, and ready for the next phase.

Libra may need to get more time to rest with the Virgo Full Moon, especially if you've got a lot of work to deal with right now. Give yourself some space to rest and recharge, otherwise it can become difficult to get focused. Try to make room in your plans for breaks, and remember that you don't need to fill every second with something to do.

Scorpio can work more independently toward changes you want to finish with the Virgo Full Moon, and this can help you to gain a more objective view of how things are going. You can see what you need to do differently, and can push to do things in your own time and way. You may break out with something that has been holding you back, and this can free you emotionally.

Sagittarius may hit your stride with something you've done the right way and for the right reasons with the Virgo Full Moon. You can keep busy, and you may accomplish an idea that you've been working on. This can lead to more ideas and fresh excitement, but you can stay disciplined and work methodically for what you want.

Capricorn can give yourself more space with the Virgo Full Moon, and you likely want the freedom to do what you want, when you want. You may not get it fully, but you can at least get a little more of it. This helps you feel more confident and secure with what you're doing, and you can come up with new ideas for what to pursue with your extra space.

Aquarius may have extra passionate energy with the Virgo Full Moon, and you can channel this productively into whatever you're working on. A lot of the current energy has been focused on your sign, so this has been a big time for a big new beginning in your life. The Full Moon offers a chance for a more serious approach, to get to the heart of it, to empower yourself, and to be passionate about it.

Pisces can give more time to the people in your life with the Virgo Full Moon, and you can enjoy company and feel more secure emotionally with those you care about. You've likely had more time to yourself and to focus on your own goals with the energy lately, so the Full Moon can give you a chance to reconnect and recommit.

So that's it! Wishing you love, luck, and pixie dust with the Virgo Full Moon!
