

Love Astrology Bootcamp Q&A

---

Q: In a composite chart, if there is a stellium of planets in the 4th/10th axis or 1/7, or 2/8 how can you look to harmonize the energy to work together.

A: When the focus is on opposing houses, it becomes important to find balance with whatever that axis rules, otherwise there may be a volleying back and forth between the two. It always comes down to balance with an axis!

Q: I have a friend who asked why has her love life dried up. I looked at her natal chart with transits, her progressed chart and her solar return chart. Nothing looks like it is going on in the 5th and 7th houses in any of those charts except chiron! Aries is the sign on her dating and marriage houses in those charts. I know you have only a few details but could Chiron be causing this much of a problem? It is interesting because her love life dried up after her last break up in Feb. 2018. How would I go about finding out when she will have a love break through?

A: The lack of aspects likely has more to do with (no aspects = nothing happening). Only having Chiron in play likely means this time is about her working on relationships issues and healing from them. Letting go of old wounds and relationships that don't serve her well. It's a little like Saturn here but more focused on healing (less focused on punishment!).

Q: So this lady has natal chiron in the 7th house. Actually, so does the other lady. But, what I see in this second lady's chart is that the ruler of the 7th is in the 6th house of Aries with transiting chiron there, though it is not yet transiting her Venus. First off, she works from home so she can't find love in the workplace. lol I told her to go find a man at the gym. lol But... Next year Uranus will conjunct her chiron, so I wonder if that would be a time for healing so that eventually she can find love? Her progressed chart has a little 5th house action with the sun there but it is in Aries so transiting chiron is there, too. Her solar return chart is mostly career focused. What kind of transit does she need to find love?

A: You seem to be attracting people who are on a healing journey with love! With Chiron, it's all about healing from the past and releasing baggage. This seems focused on relationships for her. (and with the 6th house, maybe she meets someone through their work instead of hers!) Transits to find love are the same across the board - major positive aspects to the 5th and 7th house rulers and cusps in the natal and progressed charts, transits of the 5th and 7th houses, aspects to natal and progressed Venus. You want multiple in a short span of time.

Q: What is the effect of the Vertex when activated by an aspect in a synastry chart?

A: I don't work much with the Vertex so can't really say! It's a point related to fate and destiny, so it may trigger something with that.

Q: What is the effect of POF conjunct POF in a synastry chart? Example POF conjunct POF within 0-3 degrees. What does this indicate relationship wise. Do you look at the ruler of POF and houses. How to use this conjunction to support the relationship?

A: I don't work much with POF either, but it strikes me as quite interesting that a couple would have the same POF! I'd imagine it would mean that what's fortunate for each of them is very similar (this would seem to be highly beneficial for a professional partnership, I'd think).