

Love Astrology Bootcamp Q&A

Q: Next month's full moon is conjunct my natal Descendant by just 5 minutes. What does that mean, is it like if it's in the 7th house but stronger?

A: In a word, yeah! When it's conjunct the cusp, that amplifies the impact of the new or full moon on you, and you'll feel that most right around when the aspect goes exact. This can usually trigger something, so you may experience a development in one of your relationships or with someone in your life. Also watch for stronger emotions in your dealings with others (both ways!).

Q: What do Chiron connections mean in synastry? My Ex's Chiron was on my Venus.

A: Chiron is the wounded healer, showing our greatest wounds, but also how to heal from them. When we have Chiron connections with someone, that shows the potential for this pairing to either wound or heal (or sometimes both!). So you'll often find someone you have a Chiron connection with hurts you badly (or you hurt them badly), or they help you to heal and grow as a person (or you help them to), or both. It can be a heavy connection at times though, so sometimes it's very difficult to manage, especially if you're young (I find it to be a much easier connection when you're older, probably because you've worked out more of the baggage).
